Dear Ms. Rodwell,

Good day, my name is Anthony Cuzo. I am a freshman at City College and this is my second semester. I intend on studying mechanical engineering in hopes that I can fulfill my dreams/goal of becoming an engineer major. My goal is to one day master my craft and hopefully make everyday items we use more convenient and efficient. Anything in the world is not perfect and can always be improved. Even if there is not much to improve, one idea always sparks another. As someone who will spend hours trying to make something as simple as a fidget spinner move more freely, I feel a simple idea can drastically improve the efficiency of almost any object as long as it involves an engineer willing to give up their time. In short, I plan to become an engineer major in hopes to work for any company, eventually build my way up to a better company, and make everyday objects more convenient for use. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,
Anthony Cuzo
